

JOY, LUCK, HOPE. DELIVERED.

Mitigating the financial burden of illness.

No one should have to deal with unexpected financial hardship on top of a life-altering medical diagnosis. Panda Bugs supports individuals and caretakers navigating severe illness and recovery, regardless of age or income.

OUR MISSION

Help families focus on treatment, recovery, and each other.

Panda Bugs was created after one family discovered that many supports only appear after people have already lost too much. The mission is to minimize drastic lifestyle changes while people undergo long-term medical treatment.

Healthcare Costs

Even the best health insurance leaves patients with costs to cover: co-pays, deductibles, and premiums that can prevent access to care.

Recovery Equipment

Recovery costs go beyond hospital treatment, including physical therapy equipment, home or car adaptations, and other support tools.

Transportation and Housing

For people needing specialized treatment far from home, transit, parking, lodging, and hospital stays can become barriers to care.

Income Stability

Panda Bugs exists to help families minimize drastic lifestyle changes while treatment reshapes work, caregiving, and daily life.

OUR PLAN

From nonprofit launch to family assistance.

ABOUT PANDA BUGS

A family story became a missing resource for other families.

Panda Bugs was named after Andrew and Kayleigh, whose childhood nicknames were Andrew Panda Bear and Kayleigh Bug. Orange honors Leukemia awareness, and teal honors dysautonomia awareness.

Panda Bugs, Inc. was born out of exasperation, frustration, stress, despair, loneliness, love, hope, resilience, and strength.

After a long journey with her daughter Kayleigh, who was diagnosed with dysautonomia and a multitude of life-altering autoimmune disorders, Amy's son Andrew was diagnosed with cancer.

Andrew was 26, living on his own, and just starting his career in human services when he was unexpectedly diagnosed with an inoperable tumor on his spine and B-cell Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia.

The family quickly discovered that there were no programs to pause or help with rent, car payments, private student loans, insurance, credit cards, and the hidden costs that arrive with catastrophic illness.

After years working in nonprofits and as a clinical social worker and therapist, Amy set out to create the resource her family needed and could not find.

Our Mission

Help people, regardless of age or income, minimize drastic lifestyle changes while undergoing treatments for long-term medical conditions.

Our Vision

Families experiencing unexpected, serious, long-term medical conditions should have resources that supplement lost income and subsidize additional costs for the duration of treatment.

Why It Matters

People should not have to work multiple jobs, accumulate crushing debt, or lose everything before support becomes available.

SUPPORT PANDA BUGS

A life-changing diagnosis should not be financially devastating too.

Your support helps keep life as stable as possible for families affected by long-term medical conditions, so the focus can stay on treatment, recovery, and family.

Donate Today

Make a tax-deductible donation to help support people affected by long-term diagnoses. Panda Bugs uses Zeffy, a fundraising platform that helps nonprofits receive donations without platform fees.

OUR PLAN

Panda Bugs is moving from launch to active fundraising.

The old site’s roadmap is now presented as a clear program timeline: establish the nonprofit, fundraise, partner with providers, and begin accepting assistance applications.

PHASE 1

Create Panda Bugs

Register Panda Bugs as a 501(c)(3) charitable nonprofit organization.

🕒 Complete

PHASE 2

Build the funding base

Apply for grants, reach out to local companies, research nonprofit funding opportunities, and begin fundraising efforts.

🕒 Active

PHASE 3

Partner with providers

Connect with hospitals and medical providers so Panda Bugs can be offered as a resource to families and individuals in need.

🕒 Not Active

PHASE 4

Accept applications

Begin accepting, screening, and approving applications for Panda Bugs assistance while continuing fundraising.

🕒 Not Active

PHASE 2 IS ACTIVE

Help fund the next step so applications can open.
